MISS IDE'S WEDDING.

Her Marriage to Shane Leslie Takes Place June 1.

New York, April 10.—Marjorie Ide, the second and youngest daughter of Henry Clay Ide, American minister to Spain, will be married on June 1 at the Cedars, Port Washington, L. I., to Shane Leslie, eldest and only son of Col. John Leslie of Glasgow, County Monaghan, Ireland. Miss Ide is now in London. Shane Leslie's mother was Miss Louisa Jerome, daughter of Leonard Jerome of New York. "Miss Jack Leslie," as Miss Jerome became known after her marriage to Col. John Leslie, is one of the best-known American women in London. She was one of the three Jerome girls, two of whom married Englishmen. Mrs. George Cornwallis West is her sister, as also is Mrs. Moreton Frewen.

The Leslies are one of the old land-lord families of Ireland. When Shane Leslie came to this country in October of last year to lecture in behalf of the "Young Ireland" movement as an envoy of the Gaelic League of Ireland he was met at the pier by Bourke Cockran at the head of a reception committee and was entertained at the time by Cardinal Farley. Mr. Cockran married in November, 1906, Miss Annie Ide, a sister of Miss Marjorie Ide. Shane Leslie's fiancée, Miss Annie Ide and Mr. Cockran were both guests of the now famous Taft house boat party to the Philippines, which resulted in so many marriages. The forthcoming nuptials will be celebrated at the Cockran summer home.

Henry Clay Ide, father of Miss Marjorie Ide and Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, was prominent some years ago in Vermont politics. In 1891 he was named Chief Justice of Samoa by the United States. England and Germany at that time confirmed his appointment. In February, 1900, he was made a member of the Philippine commission.

Strange Suicide Method.

Waltham, Mass., April 10.—Deliberately kneeling down and placing his head on the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad, an unidentified man was killed by a shifting locomotive here yesterday. The suicide was well dressed. Boston theatre tickets and more than $100 in money was found on the body.

Women Who Fill Attics and Closets With Old Trash.

In the April Woman's Home Companion appears the following:
"Most women dread house-cleaning; and it is little wonder, if one could see into their attics and closets. They have the 'saving mania' and have indulged it all their lives; and many a one, especially she who has stayed in the old home, has not only her own, but the accumulations of generations of women before her."

"How can any sensible woman be so selfish, and so self-abusive at the same time, as to keep what benefits her in no possible way, and yet makes her so much extra work every year? Why not dispose of things to the best possible advantage as they become useless, and save half the work of the spring overhauling, as well as do a great deal of good?"

A Gift of Cabbages

By EDWARD D. SHIPLEY

One day a couple of hundred years ago Hans Beraut, a young countryman who had never learned anything except what he could pick up on the farm, drove into the capital of the dukedom of Flanders with a load of cabbages to sell in the market place. He was surprised to see flags flying from all the windows, the people out in their best costumes and every appearance of a holiday.

Now Hans, who in his farm clothes looked greener than the cabbages in his cart, stopped beside the curb and asked some men talking there what was the occasion of the festivities and was told that the duchess, who had up to this time been a minor, came of age that day and would assume the reins of government.

"And what are those wagons so gayly decorated for? And where are they going?" asked Hans.

"They carry presents to the duchess." Now, Hans was a good citizen, and he bethought him that he, too, should offer his gift to his sovereign, so he drove his cart toward the palace, intending to offer his cabbages to her highness. On the way he stopped at a shop and bought some flags, the largest of which he placed over the cabbages. Then he went on to the palace, where the wagons he had seen were drawn up in the court, waiting their turn to be unloaded. Hans pulled up at the rear of the line and waited too. When his turn came the chamberlain asked what he had and from whom it came.

"Cabbages from my farm, and I offer them to the duchess as my own gift as her loyal subject," Hans replied.

With this the chamberlain grew red in the face and began to berate Hans for what he called his effrontery, a mere country lout making a gift of cabbages to the duchess. Then he called for a guard to take him away.

Now the duchess, who was just eighteen years old, was mightily interested in her presents and was leaning out of an upper window looking down watching their unloading. Seeing the predicament in which the honest Hans had innocently placed himself, she sent a messenger down to say that Hans' gift would be accepted, and he was to come into the palace to be thanked personally by her royal self. So the countryman was conducted into a richly furnished apartment, where the girl received him and thanked him for his cabbages. She appeared to be much touched by the loyalty of the simple fellow.

"We would like," she said, "to have you in our army. It seems a more fitting calling for you than tilling the earth. Would you like to be a soldier?"

"Indeed I would," replied Hans; "and for so sweet and gracious a sovereign I think I could conquer all your enemies single handed."

Then she gave an order that Hans should be given a commission as lieutenant in one of her regiments, and dismissed him with many thanks for his valuable present.

We can never be sure of any heart into which the little god of love will not send one of his arrows. The young duchess was at a most impressionable age, and she could not forget the handsome face and figure, the honest loyal look of the young cabbage grower. She gave orders that Hans was to be sent to a military school, and she kept track of him, learning that he was a very apt scholar and bid fair to make a fine soldier. Within a year he was promoted to be captain and from that time forward continued to advance with equal rapidity till he commanded a regiment.

Then one day while the army was engaged in a war with the enemies of the state news came to the duchess that her troops had been beaten, her commander in chief had been killed and the foe was marching on the capital. In her distress she thought of the countryman who had said that for so sweet and gracious a sovereign he thought he could conquer all her enemies single handed. Ordering her coach and her mounted bodyguard, she drove out toward her retreating forces. When she met them she sent at once for Colonel Hans Beraut and said to him:

"Colonel, you once said that for me you thought you could conquer my enemies single handed. I wish you to take command of this retreating army and turn it against the enemy."

"Your highness can make it possible," replied the colonel.

"How?"

"I will order the army to halt as the men come up, and you can tell them the story of how I became their leader. It will win them to your support at once, and they will fight for you to the death."

Then the troops were collected as fast as they arrived, and the duchess told how Hans when a simple fellow of the lowest grade had made her a present of his cabbages and how she had received his gift. They heard the story with cheers, and when their new leader ordered them to reform and march back against the enemy they sprang forward eagerly.

A peace was concluded, and a victorious army marched back to the capital. The duchess, who had loved the countryman soldier ever since she had first met him, after a consultation with her ministers decided to offer him her hand in marriage. He became duke consort and added largely to the possessions of his royal wife.

Museum Keeps It.

Boston, April 10.—The Worcester museum retains the $3,000,000 estate of the late Stephen Salisbury of that city. Yesterday Judge Putnam in the United States circuit court of appeals handed down an opinion dismissing the writ of error which Benjamin W. Hubbard of Forrest, Va., sued out against the art museum in an effort to recover one-eleventh, which the museum secured by the will of his uncle, Mr. Salisbury.

DISFIGURING ECZEMA CURED IN 2 WEEKS

Blister Broke and Formed Scabs. Nose Covered with Them. Very Itchy. Used Cuticura Remedies. Now Hasn't a Single Mark.

"My nephew first showed signs of eczema on the middle finger, and it came out like a blister. His mother thought he had gotten a burn in some way unknown to her, and she treated it as such. He must have rubbed his face with that hand, as it then broke out on his nose the same way. When the blisters broke, they shriveled up and formed scabs. His nose was covered with scabs, and it was very itchy. He was badly disfigured with unsightly scabs. At first his nose was sore, and it gradually became worse so his mother took him to the doctor. He gave her some preparation, and told her to rub the scabs off every day, and once the affected part with the medicine he gave her.

"The man must have been insane, as that was extreme torture to the child who was only two years old at the time, and he was two years ago. Well, we decided that that treatment would have to end. I suggested Cuticura Ointment and they bought it and put it on freely every day for two weeks. He had the eczema for four weeks altogether, but was getting gradually worse until they used the Cuticura Remedies, and he was cured in two weeks. He must certainly would have been scalded with the other treatment, but now he hasn't a single mark. Cuticura Remedies cured him in two weeks, and now we always keep them in the house." (Signed) Miss Ida Davis, 283 South Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 4, 1911.

For more than a generation the Cuticura Remedies have afforded the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. A cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and a box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient. Although sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 13A, Boston.

DIES HOLDING DYING BROTHER IN HIS ARMS

One Unconscious From Pneumonia; the Other Stricken with Heart Disease.

New York, April 10.—Holding in his arms the body of his dying brother, who then was only partly conscious, John M. Cahill, a retired builder, was stricken with heart disease and died Monday morning as he sat on the edge of the bed in his brother's home, at 74 West 132d street.

Mr. Cahill was 67 years old and his brother, Bernard Cahill, 65. The elder brother had been ill for a week at his home in Far Rockaway, suffering from grippe. When his brother, suffering from pneumonia, began to sink rapidly, John Cahill, despite his own weakness, went to visit his brother.

Through all of Sunday night Mr. Cahill remained at his brother's bedside, serving the patient with medicine and performing other duties that were necessary. At 8 o'clock Monday morning a third brother, Patrick Cahill, was in the room when the patient suffered another sinking spell. He hurried downstairs to obtain some alcohol.

As he left the room, John Cahill walked to the bed in which his brother was lying, raised the patient in his arms and sat down, holding the ill man in such a position as to afford the patient relief. The effort proved too great for him and he died in that position.

MINE OWNERS MEET TO TALK OVER ATTITUDE

Expected Coal Workers To-day Would Modify Their Demand.

New York, April 10.—Although no formal meeting of the anthracite operators' committee of ten was scheduled for yesterday, representatives of some of the leading operators conferred here as to their attitude to-day when they will meet representatives of the miners in joint conference at Philadelphia.

They anticipated some modification would be made then of the miners' original demands for a 20 per cent. increase in wages, recognition of the union, reduction of the working day from nine to eight hours and other changes.

Representatives of the operators said yesterday there had been no change from their original attitude regarding recognition of the miners' union. An overwhelming majority of the operators, they said, would oppose the granting of this demand. A representative of one of the leading operators said he thought the operators would be willing to compromise on the demand for increased pay, and, possibly, on the shortening of the work day.

Milady's Toilet Table

By MRS. D. MILLE

Of course, not every facial blemish can be removed by simple home treatment, but there are many common afflictions that yield quickly to proper care and attention. A true beautifier can be made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half-pint of hazel. Gently massage the face, neck and arms with this, and yellowish, dark and muddy patches, pimples, rough and red skin will be banished. It makes the skin smooth, soft, white and satiny and preserves the youthful charm of the face.

Superfluous hairs cause many women annoyance and embarrassment. These can be quickly and easily removed by applying delatone paste. Mix a little powdered delatone with enough water to cover the hairs; apply, and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone.

You can avoid catching cold by dry shampooing for the removal of dust, dandruff and excess oil. Put a cupful of mayatone in a fruit jar and mix with it an original package of thorax. Sprinkle a little on the head and brush out thoroughly. If anything will make the hair grow, thorax will, and this treatment keeps the hair light, fluffy and beautifully lustrous.

For tired, sore, swollen or aching feet there is nothing better than Mother's Salve. Indeed, it will relieve pain in any part of the body—headache, backache or sore muscles. It is easy to use, quick to act, and should be in every home, for it alleviates suffering from more serious afflictions, such as rheumatism, lumbago and neuralgia.

RIVERS RISING IN THE SOUTH

Danger Now in Arkansas and Mississippi

FLOOD FORCE TREMENDOUS

Break in Levee Will Cause Loss of Millions—Area of Between 1,700 to 2,000 Square Miles Under Water—No Loss of Life.

Memphis, Tenn., April 10.—Between 1,700 and 2,000 square miles including more than 500,000 acres of rich farming land in northeastern Arkansas are affected by the break in the main levee about 50 miles north of Memphis, near Golden Lake yesterday.

No loss of life occurred so far as known last night. Telephone lines are down. The damage will run into millions. Thousands of head of livestock perished.

Experienced engineers say at least five towns, with populations aggregating 2,500 certainly are under from three to ten feet of water.

Besides these, many minor settlements are probably inundated. Boats bearing rescue parties have been despatched from several towns.

RIVER RISING SOUTH.

Danger Now in Arkansas and Mississippi.

Vicksburg, Miss., April 10.—The center of the flood situation has been shifted from Memphis to Vicksburg in the last twenty-four hours. Chief anxiety is for points between here and the Mobile breaks south of the Tennessee line. Federal Engineer Woodruff, in charge of the situation, left here early yesterday for a final inspection of the dikes that must stand the brunt of the tremendous tides rushing down from the North. Thousands of workmen labored by moon and lantern light along the threatened levee stretches last night and to-day the fight continues. A levee board official yesterday declared the dikes would hold up to fifty-two feet of water, and explained that if the water went higher, an overflow might be expected at several points, but that this would amount to a gradual rise in the low lands instead of a tremendous tidal sweep experienced in some of the flooded districts north of Memphis.

GRANT RUMOR "FABRICATION."

Official Statement Denies That General Will Retire on Account of His Health.

New York, April 10.—A revival of reports that Major General Frederick Dent Grant, U. S. A., in command of the department of the East, was ill in the South and might relinquish permanently active work, led to the issuance of the following statement yesterday by Lieutenant Marion Howze, General Grant's aide-de-camp:

"The reports about General Grant's health are more fabrications. General Grant, who was run down in health, upon the advice of his physician, obtained an ordinary leave of absence and went South for a rest, giving no public address, so that he might not be bothered with mail. An official denial of similar reports in regard to his condition was recently given out."

ALL CASES LIGHT.

And Salem, Mass., Smallpox Epidemic Under Control.

Salem, Mass., April 10.—The numerous cases of smallpox among residents of the so-called "point" section of this city all have proved light and the board of health has the situation under control.

Acting under the advice of the board of health, several thousand residents have been vaccinated. There has been little interruption of business and this week, theatres, which were ordered closed as a precautionary measure on Friday and Saturday, have re-opened. All the schools are in session.

All the patients are either in the city contagious hospital or under strict quarantine in their homes.

PREDICT SETTLEMENT.

Leaders of Coal Miners at Philadelphia for Conference.

Philadelphia, April 10.—While the operators' committee of ten assembled in New York for a final conference before the meeting with the union representatives here to-day, leaders of the men from all the anthracite districts of the state arrived here yesterday. All declared themselves confident a settlement would be reached.

John M. Mack, secretary-treasurer of district No. 1, stated the union is ready to meet the operators and that he is confident of concessions.

Crawford Ranges

Any iron worker can make a box with a fire in one end and call it a cooking stove.

It may in outward appearance impress you favorably—and—if you want a cooking stove merely to look at it may be satisfactory.

But—if you want a cooking stove that will cook your food perfectly, that banishes toil and trouble, that is so easy to manage and so sure in results that cooking becomes a joy—its name is Crawford.

The Single Damper (patented) regulates better than two dampers; the curved Cup-Joint flues heat the oven in every part alike; there is an Ash Hod instead of the clumsy old ash pan. These are not found in any other range.

RICHARD CARLE'S VISIT TO BARRE NEXT WEEK

Will Be Made Notable Because of the Fact That He Has Relatives in Barre and Vicinity—A Reunion Is Planned.

The approaching visit to Barre of the famous comedian, Richard Carle, is of particular interest to this community as Mr. Carle is a member of a well known Vermont family, the name "Carle" having been assumed for professional reasons. The comedian is in private life Charles N. Carleton, and is the younger son of Edgar W. Carleton, a native of Vershire, but long a resident of Boston. By the same token he is also a nephew of Frank Carleton and Mrs. Preston Willey of Barre. Another aunt is Mrs. Ethan Dimond, who now lives in the Carleton family homestead at Vershire. The comedian's mother was Fanny Gilman, of the Gilman family of Chelsea, Vt. She died a number of years ago, but Edgar W. Carleton, the father, still lives at Somerville, Mass., at the age of 74, robust and active.

Richard Carle has never appeared professionally in Barre, but his successful career as a star in America and Europe has been proudly followed by his relatives here. As he came to Barre on his honeymoon a number of years ago, having married Miss Ella Clifford, of Chelsea, Mass., he has many pleasant memories of the home of his family.

In honor of "Charlie" Carleton's visit as star of "Jumping Jupiter," there will be a reunion of the Carleton family at Barre on Sunday, April 14. Mr. Carle will come from Montreal ahead of his company, while his wife will come from their beautiful estate, "The Aerage," at Long Branch, N. J. Edgar W. Carleton, and his elder son, Edgar, Jr., will come from Boston for the reunion, and all the available Carletons and Gilmans will gather around the family table to do honor to the great comedian.

Richard Carle (Charles N. Carleton) is the most conspicuous comedian on the American musical stage to-day. He was born at Somerville, Mass., and at the age of eighteen became a lyric entertainer. His first stage experience was with a company headed by the late Peter F. Dailey. Mr. Carle first achieved success as a comedian of original and artistic methods in "The Lady Slavey," at the New York Casino, where he was a member of that remarkable comedy organization for several years. He was equally successful in London in "The Casino Club" and "The Belle of Bohemia." Shortly after starring in "The Belle of New York," at Budapest, Hungary, and Vienna, Austria, Mr. Carle returned to New York and began his career as author, composer, producer and manager that speedily set him at the head of his profession.

His first play was "Mam'selle 'Awkins," which he quickly followed with his great successes, "The Storcks," "The Tenderfoot," "The Mayor of Tokio," "The Maid and the Mummy," "The Spring Chicken," "Mary's Lamb" and "Jumping Jupiter." Carle wrote all these plays, composed the music, staged the productions, financed the business part of the ventures, and acted the principal comedy roles in each piece—an exhibition of versatility and all-around theatrical genius that has had but one prototype in modern times.

As a comedian, Carle differs from all others by the simplicity and directness of his methods. He is quite unpersonified, and gains his laughs by a look, a gesture, an inflection of the voice, and by the droll insistence of his pantomime, where another actor might resort to obvious, slap-stick devices to make his points.

Mr. Carle is just concluding his second tour with "Jumping Jupiter." He has played the piece for 85 weeks and has been in every state of the Union, except three, in addition to the principal points in Canada. On concluding his tour on April 27, Mr. Carle will retire to New York and begin his career as author, composer, producer and manager that speedily set him at the head of his profession.

TELLS HOW HE RAN UP $125 INTO MILLIONS

E. G. Lewis, St. Louis Publisher, Describes Business Career on the Witness Stand—Fraud Order Ruined Him.

St. Louis, April 10.—E. G. Lewis, charged with using the mails to defraud, took the witness stand in the United States district court here Monday, and began the story of his remarkable financial career from his first venture in the publishing field, when he started a magazine with $125.

Rapidly, but without apparent effort at dramatic effect, Lewis told how he ran up this $125 into a series of business and banking operations which involved the handling of several million dollars.

Lewis said his publishing business outgrew its plant several times, and that he finally decided to build his own plant, and, realizing that city property was improving westward, raised his building beyond the city limits, where University City has since grown.

Lewis recited the success of his business, declaring its downfall began with the issuance of a fraud order by the postoffice in 1905. All his mail, the witness said, was returned to the sender, bearing the word "fraudulent" stamped in red.

Before this, he testified, he was receiving from 3,000 to 22,000 letters a day. As a result of the fraud order, he said, he lost $100,000 in advertising contracts, and his banking credit was cut off.

BEFORE THE LAW

With the approach of Spring comes the need of thought concerning the change from Heavy to Medium and Light Weight wearing apparel.

Our educational campaign, carried on in the Public Press, we feel has been successful in pointing out the advantage and economy of PURE VIRGIN WOOL fabrics as against the grossly adulterated cloths commonly sold as "All Wool," and has done its part in causing the present public agitation to obtain the placing of laws upon our statutes compelling manufacturers to label their products truthfully.

Less than ten years ago the L.A.W. said to certain manufacturers: "Live up to your words! You must all tell the truth. You cannot use words like 'Pure' on your labels unless your goods are pure."

Some day the law will say to all manufacturers: "Live up to your word. You must all tell the truth. You cannot use words like 'All Wool' unless it is all wool."

We now have Pure Food and Drug Laws. We shall have Pure Cloth Laws some day. As Lincoln said: "You can't fool all the people all the time."

But now, before those laws are made, we are manufacturers living up to our word. We say "EARNDALE FABRICS are PURE VIRGIN WOOL" and we are backing up our words with our SEAL OF GUARANTEE. Insist upon seeing this before purchasing. It is your protection.

Clothiers and Merchant Tailors having a reputation for selling high-grade merchandise in your city will show you these goods. Should you not find them, write us and we will inform you where you can find them.
